

R&D Re view

25 Feb 65 Report to ExDir

Within the R&D activity, which represents about ☐ of our current optg budget, I implemented a Directorate-wide review program several years ago. This involves program/critique sessions, which are held quarterly for the purpose of discussing each project underway in the Directorate. During these reviews detailed briefings are given me by Office Directors and their officers who are responsible for each project. Progress and problems are fully analyzed and follow-up actions decided upon and monitored from the Directorate level. These program reviews are now organized in accordance with our new DD/S&T planning categories, subcategories, and elements, which enables us to relate and coordinate intra-Directorate interests more effectively and to keep our activities more closely aligned with established objectives.

STAT

(next, introduction of ^{computerized} management information on external research contracts to allow better control

this connects with
IV